Vancouver, G.A. A voyage of discovery to the North Pacific Ocean, and round the world; ... principally with a view to ascertain the existence of any navigable communication between the North Pacific and North Atlantic oceans; and performed in the years 1790-1795, ... London: G.G. and J. Robinson, 1798. 3 vols. Even more than Cook and King, Vancouver had a strong inclination to describe Native groups and their characteristics. As a result, virtually every Native group between California and the Beering Street received significant interest on the part of Vancouver. Includes a chapter, entitled Remarks on the commerce of Northwest America, and narratives on a wide variety of Native groups, such as the "Friendly Indians", Nootka, and Bute's Canal groups.	N-439	50
